MEDIA RELEASE - 7 DECEMBER 2011

Lifeline for the Online Law Handbook; Great Christmas present for Victorians.

‘The State Attorney-General Robert Clark’s guarantee of a further six months funding for the successful Law Handbook Online service was welcome news. It’s a great Christmas present for tens of thousands of people who use the service to help them deal with legal issues’ said Robin Inglis, Executive Officer at Fitzroy Legal Service.

A survey of users shows the most frequently used chapters are on home and neighbourhood disputes, and consumer issues – highlighting the potential to further reduce legal action.

The Attorney-General’s support recognises that the Law Handbook Online is a trusted source of clear legal information, helping reduce stress on individuals and families.

Fitzroy Legal Service gratefully acknowledges the support of the State government. ‘We look forward to developing a sustainable funding plan with the Department of Justice to ensure this valued resource continues to be available to all Victorians’, said Robin Inglis.
